Venomous Politicians Not Snakes Threaten Arizonans

Sandy Bahr, Chapter Director for the Grand Canyon (Arizona) Chapter of the Sierra Club, is responsible for advocating for environmental protection with state and federal agencies, conducting research, developing and evaluating policies, conducting grassroots outreach and organization, developing and implementing priority projects, fundraising and budget development, and supervising staff. She has worked actively on environmental protection issues in Arizona for the past 27 years, both as a volunteer and as staff for various organizations. She recently received the Scrapping Bear Award from the Arizona Chapter of the Wildlife Society for her advocacy work for wildlife. Sandy has an A.A. in applied science in civil engineering, a B.A. in environmental studies, and is currently pursuing an M.A. in legal studies.

She will focus on key environmental issues at the state and national level, including legislation, and agency actions that affect our air, water, lands, and wildlife. She will discuss bills and agency actions being pushed by Arizona elected officials that will harm people and wildlife alike and what you can do to help stop them.
